

Björn B. Schmidt

The Dynamics of M&A Strategy

PETER LANG

Table of contents

1	Introducing thoughts	1
1.1	Research problem and relevance.....	1
1.2	Research objective, research questions and plan of the study	8
1.3	Scientific classification of the study	11
2	Specifying the research scope: definitions and frame of reference	13
2.1	Market entry in strategic management.....	13
2.1.1	Timing of market entries: when to enter?	14
2.1.2	Location of market entries: which market to enter?	16
2.1.3	Market entry modes: how to enter?	17
2.1.4	Cross-border M&A market entry and its peculiarities	23
2.2	Emerging versus developed markets and firms	28
2.2.1	Inbound versus outbound M&A	29
2.3	Industry focus: the global banking industry	29
2.3.1	China's banking industry	30
2.3.2	Foreign bank M&A market entry into China.....	35
2.4	Why a dynamic approach? Static versus dynamic analysis.....	37
2.5	The action-response dyad and firm interaction.....	53
2.6	Summary: frame of reference	62
3	Literature review: studies conducted on the research problem.....	65
3.1	Research status.....	66
3.1.1	Studies on M&A motives.....	66
3.1.2	Studies on emerging market firms' outbound internationalization ..	69
3.1.3	Studies on the effects of inbound market entry on target markets ...	73
3.2	Summary: research status and research gap.....	76
4	Conceptual part	79
4.1	Theoretical pluralism, relevant theory universe and analysis approach.	79
4.2	The market-based view and Industrial Organization Economics	84
4.2.1	Traditional Industrial Organization Economics.....	87
4.2.1.1	The SCP framework.....	88
4.2.1.2	Market entry barriers.....	90
4.2.1.3	Industrial Organization on internationalization.....	92

4.2.2 Modern Industrial Organization Economics.....	93
4.2.2.1 Refocusing level of analysis	94
4.2.2.2 Michael Porter's contribution	95
4.2.2.3 The influence of game theoretical approaches	110
4.2.3 Traditional Industrial Organization versus modern Industrial Organization	120
4.2.3.1 Conceptual differences and limitations	120
4.2.4 Perspectives in market-based view research.....	125
4.2.4.1 Adaptive perspective.....	125
4.2.4.2 Resource-dependence perspective	126
4.2.4.3 Cognitive perspective.....	127
4.2.4.4 Population-ecology perspective	127
4.2.4.5 Comparison of perspectives.....	128
4.2.5 The explanatory value of the market-based view	129
4.3 The explanatory value of supplementing theoretical approaches.....	135
4.3.1 The institutional-based view	135
4.3.2 The resource-based view.....	142
4.3.3 The finance-based view	151
4.4 Summary: conceptual explanation model	155
4.5 A dynamic understanding of the market-based view?.....	159
5 Empirical part	161
5.1 Empirical research methodology	161
5.1.1 Available research methodologies	161
5.1.2 Applied research design.....	164
5.1.3 Managerial relevance	167
5.1.4 Potential limitations	168
5.1.5 Summary	168
5.2 Case studies of Chinese outbound M&A.....	169
5.2.1 Lenovo: advancing into the top three of global PC manufacturers over night.....	170
5.2.2 ICBC: the first wave of Chinese banks' outbound M&A	175
5.2.3 Summary case studies: lessons for inbound M&A entrants.....	182
5.3 Expert interviews	189
5.3.1 The expert interviewees and the interview process	189

5.3.2	Analysis and discussion	195
5.3.2.1	Drivers and barriers of Chinese banks' outbound M&A.....	196
5.3.2.2	The inbound-outbound relationship.....	208
5.3.2.3	Implications for developed market banks' inbound M&A.....	212
5.4	Dynamic M&A market entry explanation model	223
5.4.1	Firm-internal factors	227
5.4.2	Institutional factors	228
5.4.3	Market factors	229
5.4.4	The inbound-outbound relationship.....	229
5.5	Recommended courses of action	231
5.5.1	General recommendations	235
5.5.2	Examples of dynamic M&A market entry strategies	244
5.5.2.1	Consortium.....	244
5.5.2.2	180° joint venture.....	245
5.5.2.3	Asset swap.....	247
5.5.2.4	Circle.....	248
5.6	Summary: empirical findings.....	250
6	Conclusion.....	253
6.1	Research and management contribution and implications	253
6.2	Limitations of the study and future research opportunities	254
6.3	Final conclusion	255
7	Bibliography.....	257
8	Appendix	327
8.1	Interview guide.....	327
8.2	Developed market banks' market entry strategies into China	331
8.2.1	Deutsche Bank	331
8.2.2	ING Group	333
8.2.3	Royal Bank of Scotland	334
8.2.4	Bank of America	336